A low-resolution EM model showed that Hsp90 is formed by two two-domain structures with an extended N-terminal domain and a C-terminal domain. The two domains are connected by a central helix and form a circular arrangement around the central pore of a cup-like shape. Hsp90 does not contain either of the typical nucleotide-binding or cochaperone-binding motifs, but it binds to its interacting partners via binding to charged residues on the surface of the
