My client does not play the steam game "Faster Than Light" because SteamAPI is missing. I would like to restart my app when my client is updated. How can I accomplish this? So far the steamapi.dll has been the only solution. A: You can move your own steam_api.dll to a folder that Steam should always search. Then Steam will search in that folder before searching in the default directories. You should also make a shortcut that will launch Steam (add a line to the shortcut for it to run in the same folder as your DLL). If you can't find it try downloading a steam app from the store. It's usually around 8GB. This app will already put the steam_api.dll in the correct folder 2d92ce491b
