The Moscow International Business Center (MIBC), a well-known corporate entity in the City, has officially added Kaspersky Lab, one of the world's leading cyber security companies, to its list of official providers. On December 18, The MIBC and Kaspersky Lab have officially signed a contract that allows the multinational enterprise to benefit from MIBC's advantages: the company's large network, hundreds of available office spaces, and staff's long-standing experience in providing their services to top-level clients. "The establishment of an agreement with Kaspersky Lab allows us to expand our services to new potential customers. We aim to build a team of the best specialists in the field, to be able to offer companies the full package of products from the Kaspersky Lab cybersecurity range. The MIBC is an important platform for the Kaspersky Lab activity on the CIS market," said Andrei Barysev, Kaspersky Lab's Deputy General Manager of Russia and CIS. "We are happy to announce that Kaspersky Lab is now officially a part of the MIBC," said Evgeny Sinitsyn, Director of the MIBC.

"It is obvious that Kaspersky Lab has been one of the most popular information security companies for quite a long time now and that its presence in Moscow guarantees Moscow's participation in the data security market. This partnership will surely benefit all customers of the organization's services." For its official clients, the MIBC has created special offices on Rublyovskaya Street, Moscow's famous leading business street, where all services offered by the organization can be performed without any hassle. As a result of the partnership, Kaspersky Lab's staff will be able to provide information security services in the headquarters of the MIBC, as well as for corporations within the organization's jurisdiction. "The presence of a top-level cybersecurity company in the center of Moscow will significantly improve the reputation of MIBC and its services," said Mikhail Khodorkovsky, the founder and current chairman of the MIBC. "It shows that the MI
