... and more on the real chessboard. Enjoy the interactive chessboard and the many different chess games at chess.com. Turbulence Learning to swim is a personal challenge. No one can tell you how to do it, no book or teacher can help you. The only thing that can help you is your own common sense, the experience you have and a good coach. The best swimming teachers are the ones that are at the pool side and waiting for you to get in the water. They are the ones that can guide you and help you solve the problems that you encounter. A good coach makes you ask questions, challenges you to think and allows you to experiment. He is there when you get a little confused and gets you out of it. He is there when you fail, to help you take the first step on the road to success. Chess coaching is the same thing. In fact, it is much more complicated because you have to learn chess as a complex game, which includes the subject of tactics as well. There is much to understand and learn. When you go to a coach, it is always a good idea to ask him lots of questions. You will learn more from a good coach than by reading a book. You will also learn from yourself, in this game as in any other. Chess coaching can help you to: * Learn and gain experience. * Improve and progress on your own. * Learn and develop new skills. * Try new ideas. * Learn new ways to solve problems. * Become a more confident and better player. Becoming a better player is like climbing the ladder of success. You learn, you improve, you get better and better. The same thing happens when you learn to swim. You are on the way to become a better swimmer. You learn, you practice and you improve. Your swimming coach will be the one that pushes you on and gets you to the top. Why choose a coach The choice of a chess coach is very important. Even if you have already a good understanding of the game and are ready to play, you need a coach to teach you. Why? Because chess is much more than a game. Chess is a complex game which includes both the rules and strategy. A chess coach can teach you the best way to think, the best way to play and, most importantly, how to learn chess.

Garry Kasparov is considered the greatest chess player the world has ever seen. But 25 years ago he lost. Garry Carlton Kasparov was 19 years old when he defeated Anatoly Karpov and Viktor Korchnoi in the Candidates Match in 1979. Kasparov was invincible both on the chess stage and in life. He was world champion from 1984 to 1993. But in 1991, at the age of 27, Kasparov officially announced that he was retiring from professional chess. He founded his own chess organization, called the Kasparov Foundation, and became an active participant in it. He has been active in philanthropy. fffad4f19a
