What's New In Hyperlink For Chrome?

Elementary link shortener and analytics tool In short, Hyperlink is a straightforward analytics tool of sorts that relies on a web-app, two mobile apps (for iOS and Android), and a Google Chrome extension to help you to effortlessly create links and receive push notifications if, when, and from where people click your links. To be more precise, the Google Chrome extension acts mostly as a more complex link shortener, while your mobile devices will eventually be the place where you receive the said notifications when your links are clicked on. In order to get started with Hyperlink for Chrome, just deploy the extension from the Chrome Web Store directly onto your browser and the designated mobile platforms for your smartphones. Next, you need to create a Hyperlink account needed to synchronize the data between your multiple devices. Incredibly simple to use The extension itself is pretty easy to use: simply add the link in the designated field, and click the "Create Hyperlink!" button from under it. Once a link is created, it will appear in the lower part of the extension's GUI from where you can also easily copy, edit, and test the link. There's also a fourth option that allows you to view the reach for your link. For example, by clicking the "Analytics" button, you are provided with a set of useful information such as when did someone click the link and from what location, as well as the number of clicks the link has received today and the day before.
