Fonts: Photoshop comes with dozens of fonts. Many of them are included with the program, but the most common and useful ones are also available for purchase. The default fonts are called Type 1, Type 2, Source Sans Pro, and Source Serif Pro. You can also use a variety of free, “faux” fonts, such as Brush Set_Skai_2, Brushes_Font_23, Brushes_Font_2E, and Brushes_Font_2. You can also create your own! The Calligraphy Tool allows you to paint or paint-like-something on images. Adobe once included brushes for this in Photoshop 4, but they were removed in Adobe version CS3. You can paint on the canvas with a variety of stylized pen tools, including Pencil, Oil Paint Brush, Fibre Paint Brush, and Designer Pencil. As you probably noticed, there are many Photoshop brushes and pen tools available for purchase. The most important thing is that you know what effects and textures you want to create in Photoshop. The free fonts and brushes in Photoshop may help you with

This morning, the University of Michigan Police Department (UMPD) released an updated crime map that includes campus safety incidents. UMPD updated the map earlier this month, when the department also released crime data for the 2015-16 academic year. This year's crime map shows a slight increase in violent crime from the previous year, and UMPD has been able to reduce violent crime from those incidents in which a suspect has been arrested. UMPD reported 626 crimes committed during the 2015-16 academic year, up from 593 in 2014-15.

The map is updated every two weeks, and UMPD has adopted a strategy of sharing it before certain meetings and other events to prepare for what comes up in the past week

Development of a new bioassay for the detection of cocaine in blood and plasma using a stable isotope labeled internal standard. We developed a new method for the rapid detection of cocaine in blood and plasma based on high-performance liquid chromatography with positive ion chemical ionization mass spectrometry. Our bioassay is designed to complement the existing immunoassay of cocaine. We synthesized 6-[(2)H(2)] cocaine, which has an atomic ratio of carbon (1) and hydrogen (2) of 1.01 or 1.00; 6-[(2)H(2)] cocaine served as an internal standard. The separation method was developed using acetonitrile (100%) and triethylamine (0.05%) containing 0.1% formic acid. The concentration of cocaine in serum and plasma was determined using a large volume
