TypeError - unhashable type: 'dict' This is a very bizarre error I am getting. It is reproducible with two different browser (Chrome and Safari) and slightly different (different only in terms of version number) code. The code is small but the error is small also. Error is very common to me, just not a very unusual case.

edit the ones you previously generated, your best choice is to convert them to an image file and save them in the format of your choice. File Viewer Plus can do just that. When you open your Word, Excel and PowerPoint files, the application will automatically detect the type of document and will open it accordingly. Alternatively, if you want to manually select the document type, you can do so by dragging the file icon to the

And if that is not enough, you can even open the document in its original application. You can perform the conversion directly in the program, or you can export the document to PDF, in addition to having the option to run the task as a batch process to save time.
