acid and protein end-products of a diatom Phaeodactylum tricornutum cell cycle. As the first step in characterizing Phaeodactylum tricornutum, there is a need for comparative genomic analysis, for the final objective of understanding fundamental relationships between microalgae and their environment. Sequence motifs for P. tricornutum's end-products of cell cycle are provided. Our first data revealed that the P. tricornutum diatom sequence motifs are substantially homologous to equivalent motifs in bikonts, which have been used as reference for algae at the phylum level. In the present study, we expand the search to include diatom DNA sequences containing gene-specific end-products. The gene-specific end-products:

- 1) L25, a DNA-binding transcription factor that is a member of the diverse and widespread class of eukaryotic transcription factors; 2) a nucleoprotein where transcription initiation and/or termination have occurred. In addition to the sequence motifs, we identified a subset of diatom DNA sequences for each of the products. Our study provides a starting point for future investigation of comparative diatom cellular function at the molecular level.

Q: Use "this" in function to refer to a parent object I want to learn how to create an item object in which I can pass it around and access properties and methods through the item object, but I am stuck on something that seems simple. When I try to use the item object's items as a reference to some existing object, it does not work. Any ideas?

//Note that item is the parent item var item

= function(magnitude, item, color, scale, className, image, buttonSize) {
this.magnitude = magnitude; 570a42141b
