I really like the fact that you can define how you can download the applications/songs/videos. First of all I like the fact that it does not need an installation/uninstallation after you have installed it, which makes it more user friendly than most programs do. There really is a problem with the downloads sometimes though. I have made the mistake of downloading my program about 10x through different downloaders and that has been a horrible experience because of the fact that it is a program that needs a constant internet connection. After the first couple of times I had to manually open the program to refresh the connection, I did not care to do that anymore because I knew it would almost be a waste of time. The fact that it is in a portable way is a great feature of this program. I like that. First of all I recommend everybody to make an effort to try Portable Free Download Manager Lite. It is a program that can really save a lot of time and hassle. Some people might have trouble to install it, but I suggest that they make an effort to get help in order to remove the problems with the software.
