But with what parameter? I can't seem to find one.. A: It doesn't matter what parameter it takes for the MPI. The MPI program name is a parameter, and it needs to match the parameter that is passed in as the first argument to MPI_INIT. The MPI makes some assumptions about where this program came from, and it expects that the program name matches the program name that it gets. If I recall correctly, you can pass in the program name to the MPI with --mpi_program. If you supply it, it will use this program name as the name of the MPI executable in the resulting job, which should be able to recognize the initial parameter of the job as it comes in. The present invention relates to a proctoscope having a prostatic catheter, and more particularly to a proctoscope wherein the catheter is movable in a bent state, when in use, so as to eliminate a need of rigidifying the outer tube of the proctoscope by covering an end of a catheter passing therethrough. As well known to those skilled in the art, a proctoscope is inserted into a rectum and it is used for observing and inspecting certain portions of the body, for example, a prostrate gland. The proctoscope usually comprises an outer tube, an inner tube and a catheter. The inner tube is movably fitted into the outer tube. The catheter is inserted into a channel formed between the outer and inner tubes. The proctoscope has a function of viewing a rectum or the like by projecting light through the outer tube to an objective lens provided in the lower end of the outer tube. The proctoscope comprises the outer tube, the inner tube and the catheter. The outer tube is made of a transparent material, the inner tube is made of a flexible and transparent material, and the catheter is made of a flexible material. When the proctoscope is inserted into a rectum, the catheter is curved to be inserted into the rectum, the outer tube is pulled to be straightened, and the inner tube is inserted into the rectum while projecting light through the outer tube. As the catheter is inserted into the rectum, it is bent in a curved state to form an angle with the outer tube. Therefore, when the outer tube is rigidified by covering a whole end of the catheter passing through the outer tube.
