With Windows Vista and XP, Microsoft Office provided a concerted effort to curb in-state and out-of-state immigration at universities has generated numerous policy changes and significant steps towards the adoption of a statewide database. WASHINGTON — The nation's universities are coming together to stop illegal immigration in the U.S., with some of the largest doing so in the state of Utah. Called the Never Again Campus Sanctuary Initiative, the effort is spearheaded by 12 large-name universities in Utah, including BYU, Utah State University and the University of Utah. They joined with the University of Arizona to make the Never Again Campus Sanctuary pledge in January 2018. The effort has been largely successful, not just among the 12 participants but also in attracting attention in a state that is overwhelmingly Republican. "I think it shows everybody in the state that Utah is ready for a sanctuary," University of Utah President Ruth V. Watkins told The Salt Lake Tribune on Monday. The Never Again Campus Sanctuary pledge was developed through 3e33713323
