Along with the development of electronic technology, demand for display panels has increased in all fields including home and office, entertainment, and is even extended to military. Nowadays, panels include liquid crystal displays (LCDs), plasma displays (PDPs), field emission displays (FEDs) and electroluminescent displays (ELDs). Theoretically, the LCD has the advantages of low power consumption, thin profile, light weight, and the like. The LCD may have more than one hundred or more pixels. The fabrication method for the LCDs includes a complicated process including depositing a thin film, covering the thin film with an upper substrate, defining a cell gap, injecting liquid crystal (LC) between the upper substrate and the lower substrate. More specifically, a plurality of photoresist patterns are formed on a lower substrate, and a half-tone photoresist pattern is formed in a black matrix pattern using a half-tone photoresist composition. A non-transmissive upper substrate is adhered to the lower substrate using a sealant. The liquid crystal is injected into a liquid crystal cell having the half-tone photoresist pattern between the upper and the lower substrates, and the injection hole is sealed with the sealant. The non-transmissive upper substrate is manufactured by removing an area corresponding to the half-tone photoresist pattern. In the fabricating process for the LCD, the half-tone photoresist pattern on the lower substrate is used to remove unnecessary area. An exposure mask is used to form the half-tone photoresist pattern, and the exposure mask is designed to transmit a light of a specific width by a specified ratio. That is, the exposure mask is designed such that a maximum transmittance 1cdb36666d

Pack Epub Integrale French EBOOK AlexandrizQ: "Whether" vs. "Whether or not" Which of the following is correct? Is the machine on? Whether or not the machine is on Or Is the machine on? Whether the machine is on A: The first one is correct. It's the plural of "whether" and the verb is pluralised as well, just like "which". It's more common to see "either" used instead of "whether" though: Is the machine on? Either the machine is on or it isn't. The second one is not correct. You can't have an auxiliary verb like "is" or "are" in the middle of a clause, so you can't say either the machine is on or the machine is not on. A: Is the machine on? - in [any] case is the machine on?
