New York, NY- Governor Andrew Cuomo, in an attempt to improve the housing and financial situation for New York residents, signed the new legislation that will reclassify apartment buildings as separate condominiums. The new law will allow more than one landlord or condominium corporation will be eligible to submit an application to do a conversion. This will decrease the cost of compliance for apartment owners as well as increase owner equity. A major change is that instead of the requirement that all building owners must agree to the conversion, only one owner must accept the change in ownership. The number of owner would also decrease and as a result, the minimum number of apartments in a building would be reduced. If you want to discuss an Unlisted Apartment Lease, please call 214-740-0391 or email at The advantages of hiring an apartment lease attorney include the knowledge and training he or she has with condominium conversion and the ability to quickly answer your questions. To locate the apartment lease attorney in your area, please use the search feature on this site, or go to Are you worried about a future dispute with your landlord or your property manager?
