1. _Scratch._ The Scratch tool allows you to create a new layer by drawing over the existing image. You can use Scratch to draw or paint on an image and create new layers. To create a new layer, simply start to draw. The tool creates a new layer under the top one, with a new thumbnail above the tool. You can then paint on this new layer, as well as paint over any layers beneath it. Figure 0.2. This example shows the Scratch tool being used to paint on a new layer over the existing image. The layer below does not need to be clipped when you paint over it. Just add strokes to the top layer (the one you're painting over) and the remaining strokes appear on the lower layer. You can paint over any areas in the top layer. This means that you can use the eraser tool to erase parts of the top layer and the brush or pen tool to paint over the entire layer without worrying about where you paint. The strokes that were added to the top layer are still visible. 2. _Paint._ This brush is a color palette. You can paint over colors already in your image. You can also apply a new color to your image or paint over a previously painted area. You can choose the color you want and the type of brush you want to use. 3. _Round Brush._ The Round brush is a small, round brush that allows you to paint precise circles and small areas. The Round Brush tool uses the active layer as its reference point. 4. _Bucket._ This brush is a kind of selection tool that allows you to select a circular area of your image. You can expand, rotate, move, and scale this area. 5. _Eraser._ This is another way to edit an image by removing pixels, or sections of the image. 6. _Blend._ This is a tool that smooths changes between two layers. You can use the Blend tool to adjust the opacity of the image by using the Opacity slider. 7. _Pen._ The Pen tool makes it easy to select and fill areas with a specific color. You can use this tool to paint on a new layer, or to paint on an existing layer. You can zoom in and out of the image. You can move around the canvas and you can draw diagonal lines. Figure 0.3. Mannose 6-phosphate/insulin-like growth factor II receptor (M6P/IGF2R) is a transmembrane protein that transfers newly synthesized lysosomal proteins from endoplasmic reticulum to the cis-Golgi network. Recent studies have indicated that the expression of M6P/IGF2R protein is important in the differentiation and maturation of mast cells, as well as the activation of osteoclastogenesis. Several studies have suggested that high levels of M6P/IGF2R mRNA expression may promote angiogenesis in gastric cancer. However, the clinical significance of M6P/IGF2R expression in gastric cancer is still unknown. In this study, we examined the expression of M6P/IGF2R mRNA and protein in surgically resected gastric tumors and corresponding adjacent normal tissues and analyzed the association of M6P/IGF2R expression with clinicopathologic factors and patients' prognoses. We found that reduced expression of M6P/IGF2R mRNA and protein was frequently detected in gastric tumors. M6P/IGF2R mRNA or protein expression was significantly associated with gastric cancer stage. In addition, reduced M6P/IGF2R protein expression was associated with lymph node metastasis
