Q: Does the moon orbit the sun? Would somebody please explain this - Does the Moon orbit the Sun as everything else in our solar system orbits around the Sun? A: The moon and the planets orbit around the sun. The moon is one of the planets. If you don't know already, the sun is the center of the solar system. As the sun slowly cools down over billions of years, it will not be the center of the solar system anymore, but it will have a very large influence on the planets and the moon.

A: The answer is yes, the moon orbits the Sun, but to some degree (it's called an ellipse). What is more, the moon is not a natural satellite of the Sun, but a regular moon with a much more complicated orbital motion of its own.

A: TL;DR Yes, the Moon orbits the Sun, but in a way that's nearly circular and with a tiny inclination with respect to the Sun's equator. The Moon and the Planets The Solar System is composed of the Sun, eight
