HyperMotion Technology combines this player data with the game's intuitive physics system to bring striking realism to player motion, player behavior and ball flight. FIFA 22 introduces "No Step," a new player animation system that allows players to more naturally exploit the space around them by using powerful natural reactions to change directions and positions to make great runs and intercept passes. Finally, "Beach Volleyball" has returned as a new competition, making the game more like a sport.

New Camera Views – A Free-Aiming Gamecam option gives gamers the choice to view the game from 2 new camera perspectives: the short-range view for speedball-style gameplay, or the long-range view for smooth passing and shooting from distance.

New Foul Indicator – Now when a player commits an improper foul while dribbling, an audio and visual indicator is displayed in-game.

Realistic Player Pass Animation – A new animation system makes passes look and feel more like real-life, giving players a better sense of what's happening.

Improved Player Handling – Players are now more agile and responsive when dealing with sprints, dragging the ball, and when intercepting.

New Player Difficulty Settings – Players on all difficulty settings now have more control over their gameplay experience, allowing users to match their skill with the game's difficulty. Easy difficulty includes all of FIFA 22's game modes, while the standard difficulty setting has been made a bit more difficult, more similar to FIFA 19's original gameplay. The Master difficulty level is now unlocked from the beginning, as a pure-upgrade for those who want to challenge themselves. New Gameplay Options – Customization options have been expanded to allow players to have control over many game mechanics.

Customization features include: Experimenting with the “gameflow” settings for nearly every game type in Career Mode. Customize these settings to match your needs. For example: Turn off all game modes except for Custom Game. This is useful if you have a bunch of young players you are molding and need to keep the modes basic. Experiment with “Goalkeeper Pressure.” Controls the amount of pressure a goalkeeper can exert on the defender, allowing them to virtually obstruct shots. “Showcases” makes the game more like a real-life match by displaying a slower-paced version of
